Funded by the National Cancer Institute, the Cancer Genetics Network (CGN) encompasses eight national centers which are collaborating to create a registry of people at increased risk for cancer who might want to take part in research studies.

CGN participation includes: Signing a consent form, completing a 30-minute family history survey by phone, updating family history information annually, and, if interested, participating in future cancer studies.

CGN Eligibility Criteria

We are interested in individuals and their family members who meet at least one of the following criteria:

- ◆ Two or more relatives on one side of the family with the same type of cancer (at any age)
- ◆ Two or more relatives on one side of the family with related cancers (breast/ovarian, colon/uterine)
- ◆ Any family member with multiple primaries
- ◆ Any family member with a known syndrome predisposing to cancer (e.g. FAP, HNPCC)
- ◆ Any family member affected at a young age (your patient or a relative of your patient):
 - ◆ Breast cancer at or before 45,
 - ◆ Colon cancer at or before 50,
 - ◆ Ovarian, melanoma, or pancreatic cancer at or before 60,
 - ◆ Prostate cancer at or before 65
